

LACKED A QUORUM.

Hawaiian Resolution was Balked in the House.

Democrats Failed to Put in an Appearance.

REFUSED TO ANSWER.

Republicans and Populists Help Break a Quorum.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Hawaiian debate was concluded yesterday, but the entire resolution was not passed because of the failure of the Democrats to secure a quorum when a vote was taken. Much less opposition from the Democratic side developed than was at one time expected. Only one speech, that of General Stetson, of New York, was made in opposition to the adoption of the resolution, although there was some passive opposition on the Democratic side as indicated by the refusal of several of the Democrats to answer to their names when the resolution was placed upon its passage. The bill substitute, the tariff amendment and the motion made by Mr. Reed to recommit the resolution were in turn voted down. When the vote came to be taken upon the main question, however—the adoption of the entire resolution—the Republicans refused from voting and the Democrats lacked seventeen of a quorum.

Mr. Cummings of New York, voted for Mr. Reed's motion to recommit and Mr. Stickley against the McKinley resolution. Mr. Cummings of New York, Mr. Geary of California and Mr. Cockrell of Texas, refused to go on record either for or against the adoption of the resolution. These were all the indications shown of a break in party lines in the Hawaiian matter. The Republicans voted generally with the Republicans. Mr. Broderick of Kansas, was the only Republican who declined to follow the leader of his party and refrain from voting. He voted against the resolution. When the Democrats found themselves without a quorum they passed a resolution revoking the leaves of absence, and then adjourned. They expect to have a quorum present to-day.

Mr. Turner, Democrat of Georgia, made an impulsive speech. The division of our countrymen in Hawaii and he was not against oppression. It was a conspiracy which overthrew and trampled under foot a constitutional form of government under which our countrymen there had flourished and prospered. And what was the condition there now? The constitution was suspended, the queen was deposed, even the writ of habeas corpus was suspended and every resident for the islands was disfranchised. What sort of spirit of liberty was involved on this floor in asking the house to stand up for such defiance of liberty and constitutional prerogative and it was the work of our countrymen [Democratic applause]. Mr. Turner paid a high tribute in the course of his remarks to the ability and integrity of Mr. Blount, who had been maligned and even characterized by the gentleman from Maine as a George Washington.

At 1 o'clock Mr. Hooper of Mississippi was recognized for an hour for the long speech of defense. Mr. Hooper, a Democratic member of the foreign affairs committee, he called attention to those features of the Hawaiian treaty submitted by President Harrison which gave a pension of $20,000 per year to the deformed queen $150,000 to the royal princess and assumed the Hawaiian debt of over $1,000,000. He argued at length the existence of a conspiracy, which having accomplished its usurpation of the functions of the government, proceeded to divide up the spoils. In the course of his speech Mr. Hooper paid a high tribute to Mr. Blount. In concluding, he delivered a glowing encomium of Mr. Cleveland for his devotion to truth and honesty and he received a round of applause as he took his seat.

BLAND'S SILVER BILL.

Secretary Carlisle Points Out Several Errors in the Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Secretary Carlisle, accompanied by Representative Bland, appeared before the house committee on judiciary yesterday. It was developed later the secretary's visit with Mr. Bland did not mean the former meant to lend his influence to the passage of the seigniorage bill. They had met casually at the secretary's office, and as Mr. Bland was going to the capitol, Mr. Carlisle accompanied him for the purpose of calling over the stand bill. These talks brought out the fact that the secretary was not strenuously opposed to the coinage of seigniorage, although he did not approve of the proposed provisions in the bill by which the mint's silver column was to be secured. It is understood that the secretary pointed out a day in the first section of the bill which Mr. Bland himself conceded should be modified.

The section provides "that the secretary of the treasury shall immediately issue silver certificates in the amount equal to the seigniorage of the silver bullion to wit, $55,000,000."

Mr. Carlisle pointed out that the mandatory provision that the secretary "shall immediately issue $55,000,000 in silver certificates" is hardly necessary as the current expenses might more than the compulsory issue of such a large amount of silver certificates at a single stroke.

Mr. Bland said he had appreciated this point, but was ready to offer an amendment when the bill was taken up by which the secretary will be given authority to issue silver certificates as circumstances demanded instead of being compelled to issue them at once.

DENVER'S MYSTERY.

The Sensational Murder of Henry Carr.

His Wife and Three Men Are Arrested.

WANTED INSURANCE.

Story That the Murderers Desired His Money.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 7.—Mrs. Alice Block Carr was arrested yesterday on a charge of complicity in the murder of her husband, Harry Carr, a well-known attorney of this city. Besie Sherwood, a close friend of Mrs. Carr, Teddy D. Olsen, Jim Cary and a man named Daugh were also held for examination. An effort will be made to sift the information thus obtained in the hope that the mystery surrounding the murder of Sunday night may be solved. The theory that Carr was shot by a burglar found in the house last Sunday evening as Mr. Carr and his wife came in from a visit to friends in another part of the city is doubted, the basis of this doubt resting in the past habits and character of the wife and her associates.

Mrs. Carr came from Buffalo, N. Y., some weeks ago and occupied quarters in a Market Street house, where Carr met and afterward married her. Her manner of life did not apparently change after marriage, and she was often found in the apartments of Besie Sherwood, where she met Teddy, Ditch and Jim—all sporting characters. At the Elks' masquerade ball recently Mrs. Carr created a scene, quarreled with her husband and flew to the protection of Teddy, her husband finally forcing her to go home.

It is claimed that the murder is nothing short of conspiracy to make away with Carr in order to obtain possession of his life insurance. About two years ago Carr's former wife committed suicide, the motive for which was never publicly revealed. A letter was found addressed to her to her father, living in Ohio, which may have told the cause. It is believed that she discovered her husband's inclination for Alice Block, and took measures rather than stand the silent.

Carr had stoutly to the story that her husband was killed by burglars and that she knew nothing about the case. She denied that Olsen was her lover, but said that he was intimate with Besie Sherwood.

All the prisoners, except Mrs. Carr, were released last night, but they will be kept under close surveillance.

Mrs. Carr broke down completely at the jail and wept bitterly. She stoutly protested her innocence of complicity in the murder of her husband, but nevertheless she has recantation.

BRITISH TRADE.

Publication of Government Returns Causes a Sensation.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The publication of government board of trade returns for 1893 has produced a profound impression throughout the country and has deepened the gloom caused by the present commercial depression. The total imports last year were £200,000,000 as compared with £193,700,882 in 1892 and £193,441,294 in 1891. The value of re-exports of foreign and colonial products declined last year by nearly £6,000,000 as compared with 1892. Hence the country not merely imported this for its own consumption, but lost the handling of a large amount as brokers and the usual profits thereon. The value of British exports in 1893 was £218,465,246 as compared with £227,677,658 in 1892 and £227,625,120 in 1891. The apparent balance against the country was £197,627,852 in 1893 as against £192,465,281 in 1891.

One of the leaders of the social democratic federation declared the present conditions would materially advance the cause of radicalism and Republicanism in Great Britain. Said he: "We have lost the market of the world, thanks to capitalist greed and the war between capital and labor. Our much-valued trade competition has disappeared itself. We have lost our rivals in the business of buying in the cheapest and selling in the dearest market to enable us to have the market to ourselves."

Mrs. Carr came from Buffalo, N. Y., some weeks ago and occupied quarters in a Market Street house, where Carr met and afterward married her. Her manner of life did not apparently change after marriage, and she was often found in the apartments of Besie Sherwood, where she met Teddy, Ditch and Jim—all sporting characters.
